1. General Conduct

All students are expected to behave respectfully toward classmates, faculty, staff, visitors, and campus service personnel. Students must follow reasonable instructions issued by authorized college staff. Harassment, bullying, intimidation, threats, fighting, vandalism, and deliberate disruption of academic activities are prohibited.

2. Attendance and Punctuality

Students should attend all scheduled lectures, laboratories, tutorials, examinations, and other compulsory academic activities. Students are expected to arrive on time. Repeated late arrival may be recorded as an attendance issue. A student who cannot attend because of a genuine emergency should notify the relevant faculty member or department as soon as possible.

3. Identification Cards

Every enrolled student must carry a valid college identification card while on campus. The identification card may be required for entry to laboratories, libraries, examinations, events, and other restricted areas. Students must not lend their identification cards to another person. Lost cards should be reported to the administration office promptly.

4. Classroom Rules

Students must keep classrooms clean and must not damage desks, chairs, projectors, laboratory equipment, or other college property. Mobile phones should be kept silent during lectures unless a faculty member permits their use for an academic activity. Students should not record lectures, take photographs, or distribute course materials without permission when such activities are restricted by the instructor.

5. Examination Rules

Students must bring their identification card and any materials specifically permitted by the examination instructions. Unauthorized notes, electronic devices, communication with other students, impersonation, copying, or attempts to obtain answers improperly may be treated as academic misconduct. Students should follow the seating and timing instructions given by examination staff.

6. Library Rules

Students must maintain silence in designated reading areas. Books and other library resources should be returned by their due dates. Students may be responsible for charges or replacement costs for resources that are lost or seriously damaged. Food and drinks may be restricted in reading rooms. Computers provided by the library should be used primarily for academic and research purposes.

7. Computer and Network Use

College computers, networks, and internet services must be used lawfully and responsibly. Students must not attempt to gain unauthorized access to accounts, systems, files, or networks. Installing malicious software, interfering with network operations, or using another person's credentials is prohibited. Students should protect their passwords and report suspected security incidents to the appropriate IT support team.

8. Laboratory Safety

Students must follow all laboratory safety instructions and wear required protective equipment. Laboratory chemicals, tools, machines, and instruments must be handled only according to approved procedures. Students must not operate equipment without authorization or training. Accidents, spills, injuries, damaged equipment, and unsafe conditions must be reported immediately to laboratory staff.

9. Campus Facilities

Students are responsible for helping maintain clean and safe common areas. Furniture should not be moved from designated locations without permission. Damage to college facilities may result in disciplinary action and may require the responsible student to pay for repairs or replacement.

11. Residential and Hostel Rules

Students living in college accommodation must follow residence quiet hours, cleanliness requirements, visitor procedures, and fire-safety instructions. Residents must not tamper with fire alarms, extinguishers, emergency exits, electrical systems, or other safety equipment. Noise that unreasonably disturbs other residents is not permitted, particularly during designated quiet hours.

Vehicles may be parked only in designated areas. Students must follow campus speed limits and traffic signs. Emergency access routes, fire lanes, entrances, and accessibility spaces must remain clear. Parking permits, where required, must be displayed as instructed.

13. Academic Integrity

Plagiarism, fabrication of information, unauthorized collaboration, cheating, and submitting another person's work as one's own are prohibited. Faculty members may refer suspected violations through the college's academic integrity process.

14. Complaints and Grievances

Students who have a concern about teaching, facilities, services, safety, or another college matter should first contact the appropriate department or staff member when practical. Formal complaints may be submitted through the college grievance procedure. Students should provide accurate information

Students should not use elevators when evacuation procedures prohibit their use. Any emergency, injury, fire, or serious safety concern should be reported immediately through the college's designated emergency channels.

16. Disciplinary Process

Violations of college rules may result in warnings, loss of privileges, academic consequences, financial responsibility for damage, suspension, or other disciplinary measures depending on the nature and seriousness of the violation. Students will normally be informed of the concern and given an opportunity to respond according to the applicable college procedure.

17. Student Responsibilities

Students are responsible for reading and understanding the rules that apply to their program, campus, accommodation, and academic activities. The college may update policies when necessary. Students should consult official college communications for current requirements, deadlines, and procedures.
